

COMPLIANCE ALERTS TELL YOU WHAT'S CHANGED

How do you ensure you comply with your Safety, Health & Environment obligations and keep your people safe? With over 16,000 SH&E compliance obligations and the potential for 1,500 changes per year it is a time-consuming task to stay on top of real business risks. Failure to do so can result in accidents, prosecution and significant reputational damage.

“As an EHS professional with responsibility across multiple industry sectors and several states, I rely on the weekly SHE Monitor legal updates to alert us when our EHS business processes may be affected and require an internal review or update.”

Mark Davies,
EHS & CSR Director

SAFEGUARDING YOUR ORGANISATION

SH&E Monitor is a comprehensive service delivering weekly updates on the impact of regulatory change around operational business processes. Our SH&E experts and legal editors monitor developments across more than 650 websites and summarise changes to obligations relevant to your business.

UPDATES FOR WHEREVER YOU OPERATE

SHE Monitor draws its news from more sources than any other alert service on the market, including:

- All Australian and New Zealand jurisdictions
- Acts and Regulations
- Australian, New Zealand and International Standards
- Codes of Practice
- Guidance notes
- Industry practice guidelines and safety alerts
- Determinations, orders, food and product recalls, factsheets and more.

MAP, MANAGE & MONITOR YOUR SH&E OBLIGATIONS

Australian businesses operating in one State are legally obliged to comply with hundreds of Safety Health and Environment (SH&E) obligations. And if you operate in various jurisdictions or carry out a variety of operational activities, or both, then compliance becomes more complex to manage and maintain.

A NOT SO RISKY BUSINESS

Over time your SH&E obligations will change. Knowing what's changed enables your organisation to respond to the new regulations, remain compliant and importantly, protect your people and reputation.

SH&E Knowledgebase provides you with a database of mandatory obligations at your fingertips. You can run reports, receive email alerts on what's changed and use checklists to draft policies and procedures. And then there's the option of the workflow tool, so you can rate risk, create and delegate tasks, and closely manage and track compliance activities.
